THE SESSIONS

This three session training program is for both community and school-based psychologists and social workers who want to expand their work with individuals with autism spectrum disorders. You must commit to attend all three sessions.

Session 1: This session provides a review of autism with an emphasis on assessment and diagnosis.

Session 2: We will examine models of practice including treatment of difficult behaviors and counseling for individuals and families.

Session 3: This day will focus on social skills training.

Register Early!!!! Only 50 spaces available! -- To register by phone with a credit card, call ASRC (203) 265-7717. Questions about this workshop should only be made to The Connecticut Autism Spectrum Resource Center at 203-265-7717 and ask for Lois Rosenwald.

ASRC is a 501 (c)(3) non-profit organization run by autism family members. ASRC provides a variety of services to individuals with ASD, their families, and interested professionals. Those services include family support, training, development of new resources, community awareness, and much more. Contact ASRC for more information at 203-265-7717 or visit www.ct-asrc.org.

About James Loomis, PhD—Dr. Loomis is considered one of the top professionals in New England working with teens and adults with ASD. He is currently in private practice with Dr. Michael Powers in Glastonbury at the Center for Children with Special Needs, where he does consulting to school systems, evaluations and individual therapy. He is also currently running a number of long-term social skills groups for preteens, teens, and adults.

Dr. Loomis currently sits on the Steering Committee for the new CT Autism Spectrum Disorder Pilot Project. This committee helped to develop the Pilot Program, now being run in the Greater New Haven area. Dr. Loomis is also a member of the Bureau of Rehabilitation's ASD assessment team.
